

Congress Moves On Foreign Aid; Awaits Ford Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, in its last week before a month-long campaign recess, has two appearances by President Ford and a resumption of the foreign aid battle on its schedule.

President Ford will outline his anti-inflation proposals to a joint session of Congress Tuesday afternoon. On Thursday he is scheduled to appear before a House Judiciary subcommittee to answer questions about his pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Foreign aid is scheduled to come up in mid-week, in House and Senate action on a compromise continuing resolution money bill under which military aid to Turkey could be suspended.

Under threat of a veto, Senate and House conferees dropped a mandatory cutoff on aid to Turkey and substituted language acceptable to the White House. Under the substitute, aid would be suspended until the President certifies that Turkey is "making good faith efforts to reach a negotiated settlement with respect to Cyprus."

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., sponsor of the mandatory cutoff language twice adopted by the Senate on 57-20 and 59-29 votes, said he would seek to recommit the conference report. He contends that an aid cutoff is mandatory under existing law because of Turkey's use of U.S. military equipment in the invasion and partial occupation of Cyprus.

The House is scheduled to devote the first part of the week to a continuing battle over committee reorganization proposals, then take up agriculture appropriations, and conference reports on mass transit subsidies, veterans education and campaign financing.

The Senate takes up today bills to set a 10-year term for FBI director and to terminate the four states of national emergency proclaimed at various times since 1933 and still in effect.

The first of the existing emergencies was proclaimed March 6, 1933, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to meet the depression crisis. The others were the 1950 Korean war proclamation by Harry S. Truman, and two by President Richard M. Nixon to cope with a post office strike in 1970 and to implement currency restrictions and foreign trade controls in 1971.

Auto Analysts See Slow Sales Year

DETROIT (AP) — Independent analysts forecast little improvement in car sales in 1975, but their predictions conflict with those offered by the automakers themselves.

Top executives at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler recently estimated that 1975-model sales, including imports, would be between 10 and 10.5 million cars, up from 1974-model sales of 9.6 million.

However, Wall Street analysts forecast far fewer sales in the coming 12-month period. Their predictions range as low as 9.3 million for the 1975 calendar year, compared to 9.4 million for calendar 1974.

"The product this year is not smashing. The cars look the same," one independent analyst says. "Gas mileage is a little better, but 11 or 13 miles per gallon is nothing to write home about."

These pessimistic sales predictions are based partly on expectations there will be little real growth in the Gross National Product in 1975 — perhaps a percentage point or two.

Stagnation of the GNP, a measure of the goods and services produced in the United States in a given year, means little change in the amount of money consumers have available to spend on a new car.

Consumers also face sticker prices that have mushroomed about 20 per cent in the past 14 months and higher gasoline prices.

Detroit auto dealers indicate sales of new models are moving slowly, with many prospective buyers taking a wait-and-see attitude.

Imports are expected to hold onto about 15 per cent of the U.S. market, despite a surge to nearly 18 per cent in September. Analysts say importers indulged in something close to a "fire sale" last month in an effort to clear large inventories.

Price increases averaging almost $1,000 per vehicle are expected to help the makers improve their profits picture following record declines in the first quarter of the year.

In addition, analysts note, the makers spent hundreds of millions this year converting some plants to production of smaller-size cars to accommodate growing consumer concern about fuel economy.

The expensive process will not have to be repeated in 1975, and the domestic firms are now in a better position to compete in the small car market, financial analysts note.

Less strike activity is expected in 1975. A series of walkouts in local disputes and at supplier firms have caused many missed production schedules this year.

Lottery Ticket Giveaways Used As Sales Promotions

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Cleveland grocery store offered its customers up to 5,000 free Ohio lottery tickets recently as a bonus, one for each $10 in purchases.

"I'd feel pretty good toward a store that gave me something worth $15,000, if I won one of those tickets," one customer said, declining identification. "Of course, if I don't win, what the store has given me is worthless, but what the heck."

John Kirkland, executive director of the Ohio Lottery Commission, said he had noticed "quite a few" such promotional offers by stores but added that the commission isn't a participant.

The stores buy the lottery tickets at 50 cents each the same as does anyone else, less the five per cent commission on ticket sales the stores get as ticket vendors, Kirkland said.

"My first reaction is that it's good and acceptable to the public," Kirkland said. "And the second reaction is that some of the promotions have been quite generous."

Not only can the gimmick increase ticket sales or other purchases in the store, but the store itself can wind up a winner of sorts, Kirkland said. "The store can get a bonus for having 'sold' winning tickets" should some of those it gave away turn out to match the winning numbers, Kirkland said. Such bonuses to vendors from whose sales come winners are part of the regular structure of the lottery operation.

A $10,000 bonus will go to the ticket agent who sold the one that wins $1 million for its holder when Ohio's first millionaire lottery drawing is finished on Oct. 27. The vendors who sold the tickets to each of the state's six $300,000 winners each get $300 as a bonus.

Ohio's sales are averaging about 4.5 million tickets or $2.25 million dollars weekly so far, a commission spokesman said, better than in adjacent Michigan and Pennsylvania or in Illinois.

And Kirkland expects the figures to rise, perhaps 10 per cent or $225,000 weekly, "as we do a better job of educating the public as to how the game works" and because "we're coming off what normally is a low," he said.

Heavy Rains Hit Florida; Tides Rise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rising tides tumbled a Cape Canaveral Fla. beach home into the Atlantic and threatened other homes as heavy rains drenched a large coastal section of Florida.

But forecasters say rainfall amounts across northeast Florida and the Georgia coast are expected to lessen today as a low pressure system's squalls with winds up to 40 miles per hour move seaward.

Cape Canaveral had more than two inches of rain within 24 hours Sunday and was the hardest hit city along the rain-drenched coastal section of Florida north of Miami. At Boca Raton, 13 inches of rain fell in 24 hours. Flooding was also reported in the region along Hollywood Fla. and West Palm Beach.

Meanwhile cloudy skies and scattered showers prevailed along much of a cold front from the lower Great Lakes into central Texas, with the heaviest activity extending over parts of New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma.

The Great Lakes area reported mostly cloudy skies with snow flurries in parts of the upper peninsula of Michigan and temperatures in that midwest region hovered near the freezing mark.

Tax Surcharge Reported Among Economic Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is reported ready to recommend an income tax surcharge on corporations and upper income individuals as part of his anti-inflation program.

The President spent much of Sunday working on the package of proposals he will outline to Congress and the nation in a nationally televised and broadcast address from Capitol Hill at 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

White House spokesmen said Ford has settled on more than a dozen specific proposals, centering on problems with food and energy prices, the depressed housing industry and record high interest rates.

Administration sources said they expect the income tax surcharge to be among the President's recommendations. According to Time magazine, Ford is ready to seek a 5 per cent surtax on corporations as well as individuals in the higher income tax brackets.

Time said the surcharge "probably" would be on individual incomes of $7,500 and above and on family incomes of $15,000 and above.

The President, asked about the magazine report as he left Bethesda Naval Hospital after visiting his wife Sunday night, said "I make no comments on what we're going to talk about on Tuesday."

Administration sources acknowledged the 5 per cent surtax had been discussed at high level economic meetings.

It probably would be coupled with tax reductions for those in lower income brackets who are hit hard by inflation, the sources said.

The surtax presumably would apply against taxes paid — not the full income of an individual or a corporation — but details were scanty as Ford put the final touches on his major economic address.

The President's proposals on housing are expected to include a recommendation for tax exemptions to encourage the flow of savings into financial institutions for use as mortgage loans. The housing industry is in its deepest slump ever because of tight money and high interest rates.

After the Sunday meeting, White House press secretary Ron Nessen turned aside questions on the President's tax plans. But he said the President's program "calls for sacrifices" by the public, industry and government.

"Sacrifices will be asked but there also will be proposals to make the sacrifices equitable so everyone bears his just share," Nessen said.

Taft Backs James Rhodes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., who engaged in a bitter Senate primary battle with James A. Rhodes four years ago, Sunday endorsed the former governor's bid to return to the chief executive's office.

Speaking at a $25-per-ticket fund-raising rally in Columbus, Taft said, "Jim Rhodes and I don't always agree and probably won't always agree," but agreed on one thing, "John Gilligan must go."

Taft made no reference to his attacks on Rhodes during the 1970 primary, which he won. He praised the Rhodes administration for its highway and vocational school programs.

Taft's attacks on Rhodes during the primary often are quoted by Gilligan, the Democratic incumbent, in criticizing the former governor on taxes, schools and his alleged failure to keep campaign promises.

Rhodes again accused Gilligan of fueling inflation through increased state taxes and spending. He said the governor has proposed huge new spending programs that will clearly require additional taxation on some sector of the economy.

Meanwhile, Gilligan told the Cleveland Plain Dealer he plans to trim about $300 million from the $1.3 billion the Ohio Board of Regents has requested for its next biennium budget.

The regents asked for an increase of $554.7 million from the current budget of $783 million.

"I'm ready to go on part of it, but I'm not ready to buy the whole thing," said Gilligan, who will make his recommendations to the General Assembly early next year if he is reelected to another term.

Gilligan called parts of the regents'

Brezhnev Pushes Talks

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev has declared that it is time to "move further ahead" in disarmament talks, a restatement of standing Kremlin policy.

The prod came in a speech Sunday as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger prepared to travel to Moscow on Oct. 23 for talks on nuclear weaponry and as Americans and Russians are meeting again in Geneva for strategic arms limitation talks (SALT).

Brezhnev used a live 70-minute appearance on East German television to reiterate Soviet proposals on limitation of strategic armaments, reduction of troops in Central Europe, destruction of chemical weapons, withdrawal of nuclear vessels from the Mediterranean area and cessation of underground nuclear tests.

U.S. officials in Washington said an initial reading of the speech indicated no new proposals.

The Soviet leader, in East Berlin to participate in the observance of the 25th anniversary of the East German state, said previous agreements on arms controls "are not functioning badly."

The SALT talks resumed last month after a six-month recess and a gloomy assessment by President Ford at his Aug. 28 news conference that there was no uniform U.S. position.

SALT I, the first round, established a rough parity of nuclear weapons. SALT II, which began in November 1972, was to have dealt with controls on the quality of nuclear weapons, but a virtual deadlock developed.

The negotiations adjourned March 19 in hopes that the July summit between Brezhnev and former President Richard M. Nixon would produce agreement on how to proceed. The summit produced only marginal agreements.

Kissinger is expected to seek ways to unlock the talks during his visit this month.

LOGAN ELM PROGRAM—An estimated 300 persons attended the Pickaway County Historical Society's bicentennial observance of Chief Logan's famous speech at Logan Elm State Park. Special guests included Wayne Hines, Dick Tootle, Bob Liston. Dedication of a plaque and disease free elm tree donated by Cole Nursery and Harold Clifton was part of the program. Boen Hallum, Circleville junior high school teacher read Logan's speech, an authentic tomahawk was presented to the historical society by Robert Ely. Charles C. Pratt, acting director of bicentennial events for the Ohio Historical Society, was the speaker. The Logan Elm High School band played musical selections for the program.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, supported by an easing in the Federal Reserve's credit reins and a cut in the prime rate by another major bank, staged a broad rally today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 12.12 to 596.68, and gainers topped losers by 4 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Indications that the Federal Reserve was prepared to let interest rates fall another notch encouraged traders, analysts said. Hopes for easier credit gained further support when the First National Bank of Chicago lowered the prime lending rate to 11 1/4 per cent, following similar cuts last week by four other top banks.

National Semiconductor, the most-active Big Board stock, dropped 1/4 to 7 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index gained 1.13 to 62.24.

Analyst Ted Bukowski of E.F. Hutton said traders viewed the cancellation last weekend of proposed grain shipments to Soviet Union as a constructive anti-inflation step.

Kennecott added 2 to 31 on reports that the company's coal-and-cash-rich situation made it a prime take-over target.

Among glamors, IBM rose 5, Xerox 2 1/4, and Johnson & Johnson 2 1/2.

The NYSE composite index of all listed common stocks rose 0.72 to 33.62. The Amex volume leader, Castleton Industries, was unchanged at 1 1/4.

Chile Buys American Weapons

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile is buying from the United States supersonic jet fighters and close air support attack planes for possible use against neighboring Peru, sources say.

The purchases are part of a multimillion dollar arms deal between Washington and Chile's ruling junta, according to diplomatic and other sources.

The deal was confirmed by a high source in the Chilean air force, who also said they were for defense against attack from Peru. But officials of both Chile and Peru said they want to maintain peaceful relations.

Marxists in the Peruvian military are not friendly toward the junta in Santiago, which overthrew Marxist President Salvador Allende and took power 13 months ago.

The sources said Chile is buying 18 F5E Freedom Fighters, the latest model of a fighter designed for the air forces of developing countries by Northrup Aviation Co. of Hawthorne, Calif. The total cost is about $60 million.

Sources also say the junta is purchasing 36 A37B close air support attack planes. These are built by Cessna and were flown by American pilots in Vietnam. Each plane costs about $300,000.

In Washington, a Defense Department spokesman said only that any such deal is announced by "the country making the purchase," not by Washington.

Luther Hodges Dies

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Luther Hartwell Hodges, 76, who rose from an office boy to become a vice president of the Marshall Field and Co. textile organization, a governor of North Carolina and secretary of commerce, died here Sunday of a heart attack. Hodges, one of nine children, was born on a tenant farm in Leaksville, N.C., served as governor of the state from 1954 to 1960, when he was appointed Secretary of Commerce by President John F. Kennedy and later served a year under President Lyndon B. Johnson before retiring in 1964.

Open Letter

Dear Friends,

To be kind, considerate and thoughtful in the little things of life is one sure way to recognize that such an individual would meet the greater challenge, were it within his or her power. It is not possible for all of us to contribute equally, in a monetary sense, to a worthy cause. It is, however, possible for any of us to be generous of spirit in our everyday living and in our dealings with others. Let us strive to do just that.

Respectfully,

10 Injured In Sunday Accidents

Serious accidents continued to haunt Pickaway County as 10 persons were injured in two accidents Sunday.

Sixteen-year-old James W. Bayes, Springfield, is listed as satisfactory in the intensive care unit of University Hospital, when the car he was a passenger in, went off the road on Route 56 west, 9:12 a.m. Sunday.

Alger Bayes, 39, Springfield, was driving east on 56, apparently faster than the posted speed, when he failed to negotiate a curve.

Gong out of control, the vehicle went sideways off the right side of the highway. The auto swerved back and forth on the roadway before going back off the right berm. Traveling into a field, the auto flipped over twice before coming to rest on its top, trapping the four occupants for 15 minutes.

The family was headed to church when the wreck occurred. Bayes was transferred to University Hospital, listed in satisfactory condition, with a skull fracture, neck and back injuries, and abrasions and lacerations to the head, face and back.

According to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Deal, James Bayes suffered a broken neck and is paralyzed from the shoulders down.

Two other passengers injured were: Nona J. Bayes, 19, in satisfactory condition at Berger Hospital for an internal hemorrhage and leg injury and Mabel M. Stire, 15, Route 3, Orient, treated and released for a puncture wound to the left temple.

No citation was issued. Bradley A. Hosler, 16, Route 3, Orient, was transferred to Children's Hospital, Columbus, for a serious foot injury, when he was involved in a motorcycle-car accident, 3:42 p.m. Sunday on the Circleville-London-Northern Road.

According to the report taken by Deputy James Deal, Hosler and a car driven by Kenneth Charles Petersen, 31, Columbus, were both traveling south when Hosler attempted to pass the Petersen vehicle.

Petersen was attempting to make a left turn onto the Mt. Sterling-Commercial Point road, at the time, when Hosler struck the vehicle in the left side.

The cycle went air born throwing Hosler into a ditch.

Petersen and four members of his family, Mary J., 34; Laura M., 8; Lisa M., 5; and Erik D., 3; were treated at the scene, by the Harrisburg Squad, for abrasions and lacerations to the forehead and hands from flying glass.

form of old rum bottles, lanterns and compasses.

And the remains of wrecked ships littering the floor of the Great Lakes provide an ideal hunting ground.

Every weekend from April through Thanksgiving, Steele leaves his desk as chairman of the Waukegan First National Bank, takes his scuba diving gear and explores watery graveyards.

"I'm more curious than afraid and it's an obsession more than a hobby," says the robust, mustachioed 48-year-old who learned skin diving 16 years ago at the Waukegan YMCA.

Working from a converted Lake Erie fishing tug equipped with a sonar device, Steele and his companions have explored about 40 wrecked ships.

"There are some estimates that 10,000 wrecks are at the bottom of the Great Lakes but I think it is closer to 600," he said.

Most of the retrieved artifacts are given to the Wisconsin Marine Historical Society in Milwaukee, but Steele also has a personal collection that includes steam gauges, revolution counters, compasses, telegraph keys, oil cans, lanterns, foot scrapers, axes, pails, a wheel and old rum bottles.

But the most interesting finds are the ones left on the bottom, he says. The Milwaukee, sunk in 1929, had 25 freight cars aboard, most of them with bathtubs and toilet bowls, plus three or four brand new Nash autos. "The cars still look new, their colors bright, but are rotted out inside," Steele said.

Rolls of nickels dating back to 1860 were found in the safe of the Wisconsin, which sank in 1929. The Lakeland had a cargo of 15 or 20 new 1924 Kissel automobiles. And under a table in the pilot house of the John B. Cowle, which went down in 1909, part of a Great Lakes pilot book was found, sealed and perfectly preserved.

Salad oil, relishes and apple butter—all still edible after resting in the fresh water of Lake Huron—were found aboard the Philadelphia, along with about 100 cast iron stoves. She went under after a collision in 1893.

State Solons Get Fat Pay Hikes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Candidates for six statewide offices, three seats on the Ohio Supreme Court and memberships in the state Senate and the House have an added financial incentive this fall.

Winners in those contests will get salaries substantially higher than present holders of the offices.

Gov. John J. Gilligan, for instance, would have his annual salary boosted from $40,000 to $50,000.

That doesn't match the pay hike that would be enjoyed by Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, if he retains his office. His increase would be from $17,000 to $30,000 a year—or 56 per cent.

Gilligan's increase would amount to 25 per cent.

The increases were included in a bill that became effective Nov. 16, 1973. It placed a moratorium on the salary increases until 1975.

Ohio's constitution prohibits most public officials, with the exceptions of judges and some state senators from receiving increases in salary during their elective terms.

Members of the legislature bore the brunt of unfavorable publicity in 1973 when for the second time in less than a year they voted to increase their own pay.

The previous December they increased salaries of senators and representatives from $12,750 to $14,000 a year. Next year it goes to $17,500 annually, an increase of 25 per cent.

The lawmakers, who didn't want to vote pay increases for themselves this year when they were up for re-election, still will be compensated less than their counterparts in most other states of similar size. The increases for judges in lower state courts, it was generally agreed, were overdue.

On top of the regular $17,500, Senate and House leaders will get stipends that include $8,000 for House speaker and majority leader of the Senate with lesser amounts for others.

The auditor, treasurer, attorney general and secretary of state will be increased from their present $25,000 a year to $38,000, a jump of 52 per cent.

As of the 1973 effective date, Supreme Court justices went from $30,000 to $40,000, while the chief justice's salary is $43,500 compared with the $32,000 he used to receive.

Appeals court judges were hiked to $37,000 from $28,000, common pleas and probate court judges from $11,000 to $20,000, which is the state's share.

HONOLULU (AP) — Representatives of Hawaii's two major pineapple producing companies, Dole and Del Monte, contend that mainland buyers are going to continue to have fresh Hawaiian pineapple at their markets.

This is their view despite reports that the two companies are phasing out their operations in Hawaii for cheaper labor markets in foreign countries.

"The future for the Hawaiian pineapple is in airshipping it fresh to the mainland," says Emil Schneider of Castle and Cooke, parent company of Dole. "Now that we have new lowcost agreements with the airlines on shipping the fruit, people on the East Coast are now getting good quality pineapple ... something they never experienced before."

Many of the reports concerning the two companies pulling out of Hawaii were sparked by company announcements several months ago that they were closing down their pineapple operations on the island of Molokai at the end of 1975. Dole has 12,000 acres of land in pineapples there and Del Monte about 10,000, the spokesmen said.

The Del Monte Corp., citing an "increase in the world's demand for pineapple," now says it will continue the Molokai operation until Jan. 31, 1978. Dole, however, will close down on Molokai as earlier announced.

While the companies are expanding their fresh-fruit shipping operation, they are, however, cutting back on their canning operations here.

The labor market in Hawaii for canning is too expensive to compete with labor in Southeast Asia and Africa, the companies say. A union laborer in Hawaii is paid $2.98 an hour, while pineapple workers in the

A Page Of Opinion

No Easy Panacea

Inflation will not be halted until the country returns to real money, or until buyers offer to pay the former price, or no deal, whenever a price increase is announced.

You can't combat inflation by making speeches about inflation. You can't hold the price line by paying higher prices.

The fact is, the American people do not want to stop inflation. They imagine they are better off because they see more money. If the present economic trend is projected to its logical conclusion, an interesting result is arrived at.

If prices of certain services or commodities have doubled in five years—which many have—what plateau will be reached by these goods or services in 20 years?

It must be remembered that prices of five years ago were the result of thousands of years of gradual price increases. If the speedup in increases of the last five years continues at this rate of geometric progression, a loaf of bread could cost $1,000 in the foreseeable future, a pair of shoes $50,000, etc.

Sound crazy? That's what inflation is.

The Battle Against Crime

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — The law enforcement officer's already difficult task in these days of mounting crime is sorely worsened by the tendency of the media — including this small part of it — to blame him partly for the spread of our Second Civil War. In truth, he's just our handiest whipping boy.

If you doubt that we are in the clutches of a Second Civil War, here are some casualty figures recently revealed by FBI Director Clarence M. Kelly:

— Last year there were 8,600,000 crimes in the U.S., crimes serious enough to be reported and investigated;

— Since 1960, murders have increased 116 per cent;

— Forcible rape 199 per cent;
— Robbery 256 per cent;
— Burglary 181 per cent;
— Auto theft 183 per cent;
— Crimes of violence 204 per cent;
— 858 law enforcers have been slain since 1964, many more crippled and wounded;

— The suburbs and rural reaches of traditionally crime-prone cities, once considered lovely tree-shaded redoubts, experienced a nine and ten per cent jump respectively in crime statistics last year.

Clearly, there is no place to hide in this Second Civil War; no lock nor safety box strong enough, no alarm sufficiently shrill, no dog, however ferocious, a positive deterrent.

A recent beef by this reporter that the FBI's seasonal harvest of crimes it and the other police forces had tabulated read as passively as a telephone directory, and should have indicated righteous indignation on the part of the bureau, is largely answered in Mr. Kelley's vigorous speech to the 81st annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police in Washington last month. Some of his pertinent points:

"WE MUST DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT." (The upper-case quote is his, but surely it reflects the feelings of every law-abider and embattled citizen of the U.S.)

"Unfortunately, when crime soars, we in law enforcement, being the most visible part of the criminal justice family, often most unfairly bear the brunt of criticism," Kelley continued.

"We are accused of not doing a good job... of failing to keep abreast of the times. But to arbitrarily label law enforcement totally or even largely responsible for the continuing rise in crime is both fallacious and unfair.

"Crime is a many-faceted national problem. The problem is not alone identifying and apprehending the lawbreaker but also touches on the causes of crime, the operations of our criminal justice system, and the attitude of citizens toward the law.

"The responsibility rests in many hands," this good man went on. "Many fields of study, agencies and actions are needed to effect meaningful remedies. Any person who says he has a final answer is only showing his lack of knowledge.

"From a lifetime in this profession, I think I can honestly say that never before has law enforcement been more capable, energetic, and responsive to its duties.

"We have today well-trained personnel, good equipment, excellent morale and competent leadership. Law enforcement has become a profession based on the highest ethical standards, working to protect both the rights of the individual and the rights of society as a whole. We do not shirk our responsibilities — and we stand accountable for our actions... Our problems are compounded:

"...First, is the problem of the recidivist (repeater). He commits about two-thirds of all our criminal acts. This means that in America today there is a corps of hardened and experienced criminals who have been arrested time after time, and they keep on committing crimes. Why do they keep on committing crimes? Partly because current bail procedures often enable the hard-core criminal to receive the same considerations as the first offender. Hence, the hardened criminal, given easy bail, becomes free to commit additional crimes. And he does!

"Of the 858 law enforcement officers slain over the last ten years, 77 per cent of their murderers had been arrested previously... The recidivist problem is aggravated by the wholesale use of concurrent sentences and unreasonable plea bargaining. The abuse of these two legal processes produces the same result: more recidivists are allowed to roam the streets. These two factors are beyond the control of law enforcement.

"...I am afraid that far too many Americans today have become indifferent, almost tolerant, toward crime. They are cynical about our system of law and are reluctant to cooperate with law enforcement."

Possible Solution:

"The institutions of the community, the school, the home, the church, the social agency. Our profession can do little to alleviate poverty, malnutrition, poor housing, lack of recreational facilities, the breakdown in moral standards, or the compulsion of some white collar workers to embezzle. Wrongdoing in today's society seems to be closely related to contemporary cultural trends which can shape, distort, or redefine attitudes toward the law."

An alarming 75 per cent of criminals arrested today are under the age of 25.

Solution? "If the growing numbers of youthful lawbreakers are to be diverted from criminal careers, positive juvenile programs of major magnitude must be instituted involving many segments (ed. note: repeat, "many") of society."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

The mood in the U.S.A. is characterized by a sense of bewilderment. The people are bewildered because the foundations of their "take it for granted" belief is crumbling. Those with traditional beliefs, the middle-of-the roaders and the more conservative, are getting the most serious of the shocks. One by one their heroes, their symbols of patriotism and virtue, are exposed as swindlers and crooks.

The silent majority, if there ever was one, is now the angry and disillusioned majority. Never before in our history have so many, in such a short time, become so disillusioned. It is one of those moments when, in a matter of days, the American people learned more than they did under ordinary circumstances in whole epochs.

That it is not a silent majority was clearly demonstrated by the great significant mass political explosion that followed Nixon's firing of the Special Prosecutor, the Attorney General and the Assistant Attorney General.

In a matter of days over a million telegrams and millions of letters reached Washington. What triggered that massive reaction is possibly the most important question we should probe and try to understand. It is a key to our awakening.

In addition to the initial reaction of bewilderment, there is growing a deeper concern, a deeper anger. It is igniting a new move of radicalism. As long as the people believe that the problems they face are momentary, they accept many difficulties. This explains why they do not immediately react to some crises even if they are severe. What is new is the growing consciousness that the crises we are in are of long duration and many are here to stay. As this sinks into the people's consciousness it will give rise to a different kind of American response. This longer-range outlook of the crises should make a deeper imprint on our political consciousness as well.

Memorial Coal Shutdown Seen

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller Sunday declined to speculate Sunday on the possibility of a second five-day memorial work stoppage.

Miller said he had not called such a memorial period, but would not rule out the possibility that there could be one before the present contract with the coal industry runs out Nov. 12.

A similar memorial period in August to honor the victims of black lung disease and mine accidents affected an estimated 115,000 coal miners and cost the coal industry about nine million tons of fuel.

Industry officials charged that the work stoppage was really called to deplete coal stockpiles and strengthen the union's hand at the bargaining table during new contract negotiations.

Family Court Out Of Control

NEW YORK (AP) — After six months on the bench, Simeon Golar, former New York City Commissioner of human rights, says the family court is "an absurd process" with a noble mission it can no longer fulfill.

He told a symposium here that because of recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions, defense maneuvers and administrative procedures, tens of thousands of youngsters who reached juvenile court are neither punished nor rehabilitated but are in fact educated in disrespect and contempt for the law.

He recommended that "we start talking again about right and wrong and about accountability" and that "we acknowledge that punishment within limits can be appropriate."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Do children ever develop ulcers of the stomach? A friend told me that his 12-year-old boy has an ulcer. I found it hard to believe.

Mrs. B.G.L., Fla.

Dear Mrs. I: Contrary to popular belief, young children can and do develop ulcers of the stomach and the small intestine.

The diagnosis of these peptic ulcers is often difficult to make because the symptoms are not as distinctive as they are in adults.

"Bellyache" is a common complaint of children. In most instances, of course, this does not indicate the presence of an ulcer.

One of the characteristic signs of an ulcer in an adult is a recurring pattern of pain which is relieved by food. Children, too, when carefully studied may reveal this pattern.

X-rays of the stomach and the small intestine are being performed on children with greater frequency because of the greater awareness that ulcers do occur in young people.

It should be emphasized that this condition is relatively uncommon while the ordinary uncomplicated "bellyache" is common.

Pardon My Dream

By JIM BISHOP

That was some dream. A peculiar dream...

There was the Oval Office. It was big and pristine, the gossamer off-white curtains lifting in the morning breeze. The President, slightly hunched, hands clasped behind his back, stood behind his desk looking out at the play of sun and shadow on the South Lawn.

A Secret Service man opened a door. "General Haig and the Vice President, sir." The President did not turn. "Bring them in. Ask Rose Mary to join us with her notebook." Ford and Haig came in quietly. "Sit down," the President said softly.

The door on the extreme right opened, and a middle-aged woman came in, slowly closing the door behind her, whispering, "No phone calls. No interruptions."

Mr. Nixon sat behind the desk. Haig and Ford noticed that he was not in a jaunty mood. The face was solemn, the brown eyes hurt. He sighed. "Jerry, I apologize for postponing your trip to Hawaii. What I have to say is important and, of course, completely confidential."

Ford sat back and clasped his hands in his lap. The general negotiated a small smile. Rose Mary watched her pencil dance on a pad like a wild dervish. "Jerry, I'm going to resign." "No!" The President shrugged, the eyes darkened with sorrow. "It's the last move left on the board. Our friends have deserted us. There aren't enough votes left—" "You have a lot of loyal friends in the House and Senate, Mr. President. I know."

The President ignored the kind words. "I told Pat and the family I am going to step down. You know me as a fighter. Everyone who has followed my career knows that I relish a good battle. But the truth is, since Monday, the deck is stacked. Hell, I have more supporters among the Southern Democrats than I have in the party."

"Now it's over, Jerry. Goldwater and Scott are crying as they nail me to the cross. So be it. Let history tell the story of one patriotic American and all that he did for his country. History takes the long view, Jerry. The only weakness in the Administration was in selecting a bunch of blockheads to run the campaign. Nothing else."

"Maybe I can persuade you—" General Haig interrupted. "We're wasting time. The President's mind is made up. All he has to decide is when and under what circumstances he will resign."

Nixon smiled. "The best legal opinions say that I can pardon myself.

air without realizing it? Can this be responsible for severe attacks of belching? It's one of my problems.

Mr. D.L., Fla.

Dear Mr. L.: Aerophagia, or the swallowing of air, can be distressing and may be responsible for excessive belching.

Everyone swallows a small amount of air while eating, drinking or smoking. Sometimes excessive amounts of air may be unconsciously swallowed by people who are tense or anxious.

Large bubbles of air are trapped in the stomach and intestines, causing the uncomfortable sensation of bloating and fullness.

Pressure on the diaphragm by the trapped air can also produce pains in the chest.

The swallowing of air can be sharply reduced if people are relaxed, talk less excitedly and smoke less during meals.

The swallowing of air may, indeed, cause belching but there are many more important reasons that should be eliminated first. Problems in the esophagus, in the gall bladder or dietary indiscretions are more likely causes of your belching.

But I'm not going to fall into that trap. As I step down, you step up, and God knows, Jerry, I wish you all the luck in the world."

"But—" "Hold your thought. After you're in office a few weeks, the national fever will cool down. The climate will be different. I want a solemn promise from you — in front of Al and Rose Mary — that you will issue a Presidential pardon to me. Otherwise, the deal is off."

"Pardon?" "Yes, a blanket pardon for all acts on my part between January 20th, 1969, until now, August 9th, 1974, which could be, might be, or lend themselves to suspicion of illegality while I was President."

"Oh," said Ford, "I don't think there will be any problem there." "No?" said the President. "Are you sure? Do any of us know what Jaworski or Sirica are up to? They'll get their pound of flesh, but they may want the bare bones too."

"Under no circumstances do I want to be a defendant in any action, or even a witness." Ford rubbed his mouth with his index finger. "Gee, I don't know about that part. Suppose Bob or John or somebody subpoenas you?" The President turned his mouth down. "You and Fred Buzhardt can figure it out. It can be done. I'll sit behind this desk until hell freezes over if you don't come up with a solution. First you pardon me. Wait for an adverse reaction. You'll get one, Jerry. That's for sure."

"When the media stops squawking, it might be wise to issue a blanket amnesty for all those military deserters and draft dodgers living abroad. Issue a statement. They've been punished enough. At the same time pardon all the Watergate defendants and you have it made."

"Everyone has been humiliated enough. The disgrace of it all—their poor families and children—pour it on, Jerry. Call it a gigantic act of mercy. I don't care. I just want this silly business to stop."

"I'll try." "You'll do better than that." "Okay, I promise." "Good. And remember, all White House papers, including the tapes, are my personal property."

"Now wait a minute—" "You wait a minute. All... the... tapes... come... to... me... at... San Clemente. Understood?" "Yes sir."

It was some dream. Must have been the cottage cheese and onions...

WHS Band Majorettes Featured

By SHIRLEY FIELDS
The 1974-75 Mustang Marching Band majorettes are, Gloria Curry, head majorette, senior daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Curry; Kim Finch, senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Finch; Fonda Howard, junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Howard; Cindy Tucker, junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tucker and Bev Barnette, sophomore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Barnette.

The majorettes attended the Golden Eagles National Majorette Clinic at Muskingum College, July 8-11 where they were taught many new and different routines.

They have already displayed their talents at many festivals this past summer. During half-time activities at the first football game, the majorettes did a pom-pom routine to "El Cumbancheros" and a fire baton routine to "Smoke on the Water".

The majorettes are doing a fine job and the students at Westfall High School wish them continued success throughout the marching season.

Student President Plans Court

By MELODY MORRISON
Jeff Davis, senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Davis, Route 3, Clark-Lakes, Orient, is the student body president of Westfall High School for 1974-75.
Davis hopes to set plans for a student court for Westfall. It would be a group of students who would be responsible for punishments for rule-breaking students. He is also looking for new ideas and hopes to receive many contributions from the student body.
After graduation, Davis plans to attend college and study law enforcement. His hobbies include reading and sports.

School Celebrates 10 Years Existence

By JACQUI RICE
Westfall High School is proud to celebrate its first decade of being in existence. It has been ten years since Westfall was first planned and built. If you could compare it the way it is now to ten years ago, you would see that it has had good care over the years it has been in use.

It is hard to imagine how the first students to use Westfall felt. They were probably awed at its size and structure. If they were like some of the new students we have had come in, it probably took them a while to know their way around.

The students at Westfall High School should be proud of their school. It has a lot of good things going for it. We have an excellent faculty, a great band and superb football, basketball, and baseball teams. There are many other hard working organizations that we couldn't do without.

All the different people and organizations go together to form our really great school. So come on fellow students, let's hear it for Westfall!

School Elections Set In Butler County

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) - The Butler County Board of Elections scheduled two special school elections here Tuesday, one for Hamilton schools and the other for Fairfield.
Hamilton voters will consider a seven-mill operating levy and Fairfield 5.94 mills.

Students Elect Class Officers

By NANCY SCHEIN
The election, for class officers, was held differently this year, with the student campaigning for the office of his choice.
The student was given a week to declare his candidacy. Each candidate had to have a campaign manager and obtain signatures of fifteen classmates.
The next week the campaign was launched. The school halls were filled with the candidates' posters, signs and slogans, and, of course, each declared himself to be the best choice for the office.
"Meet the Candidate" sessions were held during class meetings, Sept. 18. Each candidate was given a chance to present his platform to his class.
The elections were held Sept. 20.
Senior class officers are: Tony Mosley, president; Cindy Hamman, vice president; Theresa Conley, secretary; and Connie Drummond, treasurer.
Junior class officers are: Jim Fausnaugh, president; Jeff Karshner, vice president; Susan Wright, secretary; Vanessa Long, treasurer.
Sophomore class officers are: Sue Monett, president; Jerry Welsh, vice president; Judy Wolford, secretary; and Valerie Corbin, treasurer.
Freshman class officers are: Debbie Stover, president; Greg Clark, vice president; Karen Cochran, secretary; and Julie Ogle, treasurer.
Good luck to all the new officers!

Blue Cross Mergers Under Fire

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) - A hearing on a requested injunction to block merger of two Ohio Blue Cross-Blue Shield units with Blue Cross of Southwestern Ohio is scheduled Tuesday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.
Cincinnati attorney Vernon R. Brose, in a class action suit filed Friday, asked Judge Robert Kraft to invalidate the proposed mergers by Blue Cross and order what Brose termed "unconscionable reserves in excess" of $50 million placed in trust.
The 11:30 a.m. hearing was set after Brose alleged that Blue Cross here had built up unneeded reserves by charging policy holders higher rates than necessary to pay medical costs.
These reserves, he said, are causing nonprofit insurance carriers "considerable embarrassment" with the Ohio Insurance Commission, the Internal Revenue Service and its policyholders.
Brose charged this is contrary to law which requires that excessive reserves be used only to benefit policyholders.
Blue Cross of Southwestern Ohio two weeks ago said it was seeking mergers with "healthy" plans to more efficiently handle paperwork for an anticipated National Health Insurance program pending in Congress.

Venezuelan Oil Tax To Pose Problems

NEW YORK (AP) - A tax increase in Venezuela this past week has raised the prospect of still more oil problems for the United States this winter.
Venezuela, the biggest supplier of foreign oil to this country, announced a 3.5 per cent hike in the taxes it levies on that oil. And it made the increase retroactive to the first of the year.
The increase works out to a total of $300 million in new back taxes so far this year and the figure is expected to be about $400 million by the end of the year.
Venezuela said the tax was set up so that it would cut into allegedly excessive profits by oil companies in a way that would not involve passing the costs along to consumers. But the oil companies quickly countered that they couldn't absorb the new expenses alone and were busy this past week trying to go see just how much of the hike could be passed along.
Companies affected by the move included Gulf Oil Corp.; Texaco, Inc.; Roy Dutch-Shell Group.
Other oil-producing nations are expected to make similar moves, while oil-consuming nations continue meeting in an effort to find ways to deal with the problems being raised.
Kuwait changed its royalty rate on oil this past week and that move, along with others, was expected to boost the price of an average barrel of oil to $9.44 in the fourth quarter, up 75 cents from the third-quarter price.

The increases in foreign crude oil prices came during a week when some U.S. refiners were announcing cuts in the prices of some of their products.
Mobile cut gasoline prices two cents a gallon, crediting lower crude oil prices in September. It also dropped the price of jet fuel and assorted other fuel oils.

Standard Oil of Ohio cut its gasoline price a penny a gallon, Skelly Oil Co. announced a cut of 2.5 cents and a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Indiana cut prices for foreign crude and refined products were behind a hike of 1.5 cents a gallon for gasoline.

Russia Nears Automobile Age

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is on the threshold of the automobile age and seems ready to fulfill the dreams of millions of its citizens — to have a car.

It's going to be a long time before everybody in this vast land of 235 million people who wants a car can have one, but "avtomobilizatsiya" or automobilization is on the way.

Nearly 700,000 cars will be sold to private owners this year, and there is talk of one million cars a year in the near future.

Those are puny figures compared to the United States where 895,000 cars were sold to Americans way back in 1915. Yet only four years ago, in 1970, just 125,000 cars were sold to private owners in the Soviet Union.

There are only about 2.5 million private cars in the Soviet Union, compared to some 94 million in the United States and 16.4 million in West Germany.

Even with that low number there are obvious signs of the tiny auto explosion:

—A foreigner who could drive to Leningrad two years ago at a prudent 60 miles per hour and never look back is now frequently passed by Russians whizzing along in new Zhigulis — the Soviet version of the Italian compact Fiat 124.

—On a summer weekend the two-lane road south to Kharkov is clogged with drivers, many with camping equipment lashed to luggage racks.

—One can no longer count on finding a parking space directly in front of the Bolshoi Theater 10 minutes before the curtain goes up.

—A foreigner driving a Zhiguli is taunted by a prideful Russian: "Hey, that's one of our cars. Where is your Ford?"

—Tiny racing stripes, curtained rear windows, stuffed animals and pillows, and Fiat mudguards are appearing as "customizing" touches to Soviet cars. And the ultimate in machismo is to paint a number on the front doors and place a pair of plastic racing helmets on the rear window ledge.

Why shouldn't Ivan Ivanovich get the same feeling as Kremlin leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, who once told a foreign journalist: "When I'm behind the wheel I can relax. When it's I who drives, I have the impression nothing can happen to me."

The urge to mobility, convenience, to master one's own fate, escape the herd — all have fueled a Soviet love affair with the auto. A Soviet newspaper reported a majority of car owners said they needed a car "to get away from it all."

Some Communist party ideologists have warned against a growth of "private ownership individualism", apparently worried about what Russians on wheels will mean for the "new Soviet man" supposedly being molded here. However, the leadership has apparently decided to make the car a symbol of efforts to meet long-frustrated consumer demands.

The Soviets are worried about pollution, traffic congestion, rising accident rates and the host of other ills that come with cars. But they are still at an early stage since the road to genuine mass auto ownership on a Western scale is blocked by shortage of cars, service and repair facilities, spare parts, garages and good roads.

County Grange Officers Meet

Mr and Mrs. Ernest Bidwell, deputy masters of the Ohio State Grange, conducted the annual officers meeting of the Pickaway County Subordinate Granges at the grange building on Sunday afternoon.

Officers representing all the granges in the county were present for the meeting at which time plans were made for all activities in the county to be held during the new grange year.

Pickaway County Was Center Of Indian Activities

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Johnnda Davis, editor of the Pickaway County Historical Society's Quarterly, concerning the Indian activity of the area 200 years ago.

By JOHNDA DAVIS
For The Herald

Two days after Lord Dunmore had forced Col. Lewis to obey his orders to retire, on October 26, 1774, the Indians met with the Virginians. They heard John Gibson read Chief Logan's impassioned speech to the white men. The Indians agreed to the terms of peace imposed upon them.

Some of the Virginians still harbored a taste for vengeance. Later that night a sizeable body of white men slipped out of Camp Charlotte, telling the Indians that they intended to return to Fort Gower. Instead they went up the Scioto to the three Mingo towns which were located in present day Columbus. They burned the towns, killed a number of Indians, mostly women and children, as the warriors were absent from the villages, and recovered a number of white prisoners and considerable loot.

Within a few days, Lord Dunmore broke camp at Camp Charlotte and started on the first stage of his long journey back to Williamsburg. Cornstalk and the Grenadier Squaw accompanied the white men on their journey down the Hocking river to Fort Gower at its mouth, near Belpre. A son of Cornstalk's was one of the four Indian hostages taken back to Virginia. These hostages were released during the Revolution to find their way back to their Ohio homes as best they could. Cornstalk never saw his son again.

The next spring, in 1775, Cornstalk and the Grenadier Squaw were among the Indians who ratified the treaty drawn up at Camp Charlotte when they journeyed to Fort Pitt. The importance of this treaty should not be underestimated. It gave the Virginians the security and confidence they needed before they defied the British and joined with the other American colonies in proclaiming the Declaration of Independence, an event which followed soon after July 4, 1775. Until the treaty with the Indians was made, the Virginians felt defenseless on their western borders.

They feared that the British would join forces with the Indians to form a "second front" in the west. The American colonists could have been the victims of a "squeeze play" between warring Indians on the Western borders and an attack by the British forces in the east. There are American historians who have asserted that the Battle of Point Pleasant and the more important peace terms agreed upon in Pickaway County in October, 1774 constituted the first battle of the American Revolution. Whatever the merits of that argument, the fact emerges that had the colonists embarked on the War of Independence without security on their western borders, a sizeable number of troops from the colonists small, struggling army would have had to be deployed to guard against attack from that frontier. That is historical fact - and the reason that local historians consider this particular spot in America of unique importance.

The rest of this story is tragic - at least for the Indians who called this area their home and loved it, I am sure, as much as any white man who succeeded them. To their enduring credit let it be said that the tribal chieftains lived up to their word. Chief Cornstalk was one of the Indians who gave his life to fulfill his promise. Three years to the day after the Battle of Point Pleasant, Chief Cornstalk and his son, Ellinipsico, went back to that place to warn the white men that renegade Indians were preparing for an assault on white settlers. They were taken into custody and on October 10, 1777 they were killed by white men as they stood defenseless. It is recorded that Cornstalk, in his last moments adjoined his son to face death and die like a man.

The third Indian chief whose name is peculiarly associated with Pickaway County is Nonhelema, who was both an Indian "princess" and a chief. Louise Phelps Kellogg wrote that the Indians had their own kind of democratic government. At the Council House, where issues were decided and chieftains were chosen, each adult Indian-male or female had a vote. The tribes were divided into septs - a kind of clan - each of which performed a special contribution to the tribal system. The Shawnees had two chieftains in the sept to which Cornstalk and his sister belonged, and the two were elected to that post by their fellows. Nonhelema was, to my knowledge, the only woman who rose to that rank among the tribes in Ohio. From all I have read about her, she deserved the honor.

Her village on the Scioto was larger than that of her brother Cornstalk across the creek from Grenadier Squaw Town. Unlike his village, Grenadier Squaw Town had a Council House and a Burning ground. From earliest days she participated with him in all the confrontations with the white men.

Legend says that she was a woman of formidable proportions - very tall, perhaps six feet, six in height - and of commanding presence. It was for this reason that the French fur traders or the British dubbed her the Grenadier Squaw, because her mien was that of a grenadier. She married and had at least two children, a girl named Fanny or Fawny and a son called Morgan.

Another story about her says that during a battle in which her brother Silverheels was wounded, she rushed to the scene, scooped her brother up in her arms and carried him to safety. In 1772 a Moravian missionary to the Indians visited the Shawnees on the Scioto. He was well-received by Cornstalk on his first. On a subsequent visit in 1773, Nonhelema was baptized into the Christian faith and given the name of Catherine. Later records often refer to her as the Indian Katie. It should be set down that in her life thereafter Nonhelema evinced more Christian precepts than many of the white men with whom she dealt.

Soon after 1774, the Grenadier Squaw became homeless. For the remainder of her life she wandered, usually with her daughter Fanny, from one Indian village to another or was given shelter at various white settlements. In 1786, General Benjamin Logan led a force of 800 Kentuckians up to destroy the Mac-o-chee villages along the Mad river. Moluntha, the sachem of the Mac-o-chee villages had befriended the Grenadier Squaw when most of her tribesmen turned against her because of her friendship with the white men. Moluntha was killed when he was standing unarmed beside Grenadier Squaw.

She was taken as a prisoner back to Danville, Ky. where she remained a prisoner until August of the next year when prisoners were exchanged. We have no further knowledge of her after she was released. She may have gone west of the Mississippi where some of the Shawnees were living in 1787. Her nephew Peter Cornstalk is known to have lived in Missouri as late as 1812. Dr. Kellogg in her tribute to Nonhelema said "Wherever Nonhelema passed the evening of her life, it was doubtless among her own people once more, honored for her wisdom and courage, and consoled for her misfortunes."

The first reference I ever read about the Grenadier Squaw was in a paper prepared for the Business and Professional Women's Club by Mrs. Anna Chandler. She gave as title for her paper "The Grenadier Squaw - Pickaway county's First Businesswoman." Perhaps that is the proper way to remember her.

DEAR READERS: If statistics bore you, please read this anyway. The information may come in handy if you're ever on a quiz show. It could even save your life:

Q. When was the Chicago fire?
A. October 9, 1871. Exactly 103 years ago this week. But let's get a little more current, shall we? Did you know that last year in the U.S.A. 11,900 people died in 2,815,000 fires? And that in Canada, there were 830 deaths in 78,900 fires? Even more tragically, a large percentage of deaths were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone for just a few minutes.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1.) smoking, 2.) electrical wiring, 3.) heating and cooking equipment, 4.) children playing with matches, 5.) open flames and sparks, 6.) flammable liquids, 7.) suspected arson, 8.) chimneys and flues, 9.) lightning, 10.) spontaneous ignition.

The total fire loss in 1973 was an estimated 3 billion, one million dollars in the U.S.A. and 254 million dollars in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life:

-Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches too. And never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

-Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.

-Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

-Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

-Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

-Never use flammable liquids for dry cleaning indoors.

-Never smoke in bed.

-Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

Remember, fire extinguishers put out 97 per cent of all the fires on which they are used . . . Most large fires started as small fires . . . So invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher and keep it handy in your kitchen, or be a sport and buy one for your cottage, car, boat, and the back bedroom, too.

NOW, in case of fire:

Most fires occur between midnight and 6 a.m., so always sleep with your bedroom door closed. If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window. But first alert the rest of the household.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket and sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to call them. Get out-and call from a neighbors house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure-not even the family pet-is worth risking a human life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so. God bless. Have a good day!

ABBY

In their back yard, the Martins kept a pet coyote on a chain. Although they considered him harmless, they warned youngsters in the neighborhood to keep their distance. But one day a boy ventured too close and got bitten.

Sued afterward for damages, the Martins insisted in court that the coyote had never bitten anyone before. Nevertheless, the court held them liable. The court said the law is less interested in the characteristics of the individual animal than in the characteristics of the species.

Most courts agree that the keeper of a wild animal, even if it is seemingly tame, carries a heavy responsibility in case of an injury. (Of course, there may also be a local ordinance forbidding such pets altogether.)

Where is the dividing line between "wild" and "tame"? Generally considered wild are such animals as lions, tigers, bears, and wolves. Generally considered tame are such animals as cattle, sheep, horses, dogs, and cats.

Then there are assorted animals near the borderline, like deer, mules, and monkeys.

To some degree, the law's classification depends on the customs of the community. The elephant, held tame in Burma, was held wild in Ohio. The camel, held tame in Australia, was held wild in California.

Even if the animal is classified as wild, the keeper will usually not be blamed for an injury to someone who was guilty of deliberate provocation or recklessness. In one case a youth disregarded both a barrier and warning signs to approach a leopard in a cage.

Slashed by the leopard, he later demanded damages from the animal's owner. But the court threw out his claim. The court said, in effect, that the victim had gotten what he had asked for.

Bicentennial Commission Eyes Plans

A public presentation of credentials designating Pickaway County as the official American Revolution Bicentennial Agency for this area was made to the County Commissioners.

Walt Spangler has been appointed by the Pickaway County Commissioners as the Chairman of this group and has been in the process of setting up the various committees to activate this commission and to initiate the program that will involve all segments of the community of Pickaway County in the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the American Revolution.

All this must be accomplished through the guidelines as established by the Ohio Bicentennial Commission and will be co-ordinated with their goals and procedures. Even though the Ohio Bicentennial Commission activities are not scheduled to begin until 1975 first Bicentennial event for Pickaway County was the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of Logan's speech at the Logan Elm site Saturday and Sunday.

The theme of the 1975 year effort will be "Heritage" and is an opportunity for many of the older natives of the county and their descendants to resurrect many of the historical items in their possession and share them with the citizens of Pickaway County.

Many activities in the schools, churches, festivals, civic clubs and other groups will be expounding the "Heritage" theme during the next year.

The festivals, fairs and other celebrations in the county will also be using the "Heritage" theme during 1975.

Many other events will be planned by the committees involved to point out to residents and visitors alike the fine heritage of the local communities.

A second phase of the 200th Anniversary celebration is "Festivals". It will recognize the fairs, festivals and home comings and their contribution in Pickaway County and throughout America so that citizens will expand their knowledge and appreciation of their country.

Locally, the Circleville Pumpkin Show, Ashville 4th of July celebration and the various homecomings will be encouraged to extend an invitation to visitors from all across the nation. Activities at these events will be placing special emphasis on activities of the past 200 years.

"Horizons '76" - The third phase of the Bicentennial celebration is a call to all Americans to engage in some project that will carry out the theme of "A Better Quality of Life" by encouraging citizens involvement in governmental and community programs.

The Pickaway County Bicentennial Commission will include committees to represent clergy, schools, government, historical, civic & fraternal, communities, events & festivals, merchants industry, news media, rural and farm groups, military and veteran organizations, womens organizations and youth organizations. The chairman of each of these committees will be meeting early in November to receive information and initiate plans that will include all of Pickaway County.

Where is their dream house without more energy?

Unless all of the new sources of clean energy are made available soon, your dream house . . . or your children's . . . could be little more than a dream.

Of course, if you live in a house using natural gas now, you'll continue to get the gas you need for the appliances you're using . . . or their replacements. People who already live in gas houses are lucky.

But America needs millions of new homes every year. And the home builders already have felt the effects of the gas shortage. In many areas of the country, builders can't get natural gas for all the new homes that must be built. And that adds to the supply problems of the other forms of energy. It doesn't leave the new home buyer much choice and means he could pay more for his new, non-gas home.

But, all forms of energy that America needs — gas, oil, coal, nuclear — are in short supply. And Americans should be concerned about that. You can help by learning more about the energy crisis and supporting efforts to provide America with enough energy to meet all its needs, including new and better housing.

Columbia Gas is working to help solve the energy crisis through Arctic exploration. The advancement of millions of dollars for rights to gas discovery has stimulated exploration and drilling activities in the Arctic. Commercially productive wells have been found. Huge pipelines remain to be built and Columbia is participating in their development.

Dodgers Win Pair In Playoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There's nothing like two victories on the road before going home to make a team feel like the National League champions. "I'm not saying we're going to sweep, but we're the National League champs," said Jim Wynn, the power behind the Dodgers' season-long drive that has left them one victory short of the NL title and a World Series berth after Sunday's 5-2 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates. "We're in the driver's seat," said Ron Cey, who rapped a homer, two doubles and a single to tie the playoff record of four hits in one game set by Pittsburgh's Bob Robertson in 1971. "Now the Pirates got to pull all the stops," echoed Willie Crawford, whose pinch-hit single brought Cey home with the winning run against Pittsburgh's relief ace Dave Giusti. No team has overcome a 2-0 deficit since the best-of-five intra-league playoffs began in 1969 and the Pirates task is made more difficult by the series shifting to Los Angeles. "I'd say we have our backs to the wall," Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh said after the Dodgers scored three runs off Giusti to snap a 2-2 tie. "But we've been counted out of it nine or 10 times this year, and here we are playing in the big series," added Murtaugh, whose club was 14 games under .500 early in the season. The Dodgers, who won 3-0 Saturday behind the pitching of Don Sutton, led 2-0 into the Pirates' seventh Sunday, and Pittsburgh's 15 scoreless innings matched the playoff record they set in two games against Cincinnati in 1970. The Pirate famine ended in the seventh inning when singles by Paul Popovich, Richie Zisk and Al Oliver helped the Dodgers' season-long drive that has left them one victory short of the NL title and a World Series berth after Sunday's 5-2 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates. However, Murtaugh had to sacrifice starting pitcher Jim Rooker for a pinch-hitter in that inning, and the Dodgers broke the game open in the eighth against Giusti. Cey, who made two errors in the Dodgers' first-game victory, opened the inning with a double into the left field corner. He then beat catcher Manny Sanguillen's throw to third on a ball tapped weakly in front of the plate by Bill Russell and scored on Crawford's bloop single to left. A single to right by freewinging Manny Mota then chased Giusti and scored Russell, before Dave Lopes stroked another single off rookie Larry Demery to score Crawford with the final run. Ramon Hernandez, the third Pirate reliever, got Steve Garvey to hit into a bases-loaded double play to end the inning, but Dodger relief ace Mike Marshall shut out the Pirates over the final two innings. The Pirates will pin their hopes on Bruce Kison, 9-8, when the series resumes Tuesday, while the Dodgers will counter with Doug Rau, 13-11.

Rockets Lead MAC; Defeat Bowling Green

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"It sure will be a lot easier to practice this week with another win under our belts," a beaming Toledo football Coach Jack Murphy said. His Rockets, figured to make a poor showing in the MidAmerican Conference this season, had just taken over the league lead with a 24-19 victory over Bowling Green Saturday night. Meanwhile, preseason favorite Kent State stayed alive in the title race with a 28-6 triumph over Western Michigan. Miami, yet to play an MAC game this season, edged Kentucky 14-10 and Ohio University whipped league newcomer Northern Illinois 31-14 in a game that did not count in the conference standings. Also playing outside the MAC, Eastern Michigan fell to Arkansas State 14-7, Central Michigan defeated Illinois State 21-14 and Ball State was a 31-22 victim of Indiana State. Toledo notched its second straight conference triumph behind the passing of quarterback Gene Swick, who completed 20 aeriels for 236 yards. But the Rockets managed only 130 yards on the ground, with nearly half of it racked up by Swick. "We had a good game throwing the ball, but our running game was only adequate," Murphy said. "We still have a lot of work to do on that." The Toledo defense held the Falcons on a number of key third-down situations. Bowling Green scored only one touchdown, with the rest of its scoring coming on a league record-tying four field goals by Don Taylor. Bowling Green, now 1-1 in the MAC, had taken a 13-10 lead by intermission, largely on the performance of running back Dave Preston, who carried the ball 21 times for 185 yards in the first half.

Reserves Zip Hurricane

The Circleville reserve Tigers upped their season mark to 5-0 with a 23-0 blanking of Wilmington Saturday morning. Bill Mogan ran for 10 and 15 yards for touchdowns for the Tigers and Brad Allison accounted for six points on a quarterback sneak. Mogan and Frank Merrill ran for extra points and Mogan kicked one. Fine offensive blocking by Tom McGuire, Rusty Holbrook, Dan Marshall, Art Davis, Luke Lawhorn, Brian Price, Earl Stevenson, and Randy Happeney paved the way for the Tigers. Defensively, the Tigers kept Wilmington from mounting any serious threat. Circleville travels to Miami Trace next Saturday for another reserve game.

play were Dick Wilcox, left, 152; Brent Bell, Greg Peck, and Bill Heiskell, 154. In net play, Garner Cox, right, won second with a 138 total. Dick Robbins finished at 145, Larry Oiler had a 146, and Tom Snyder carded a 147.

Oakland Whips Orioles

OAKLAND (AP) — It was a familiar script: Oakland trailing Baltimore in the American League playoffs until Sal Bando started swinging at Dave McNally's pitches. There were a few new wrinkles thrown in, such as two errors by the usually surehanded Baltimore Orioles. They enabled Bando and Ray Fosse to drive in four unearned runs with home runs as the A's rebounded from Saturday's 6-3 defeat to whip the Orioles 5-0 Sunday behind Ken Holtzman's five-hit pitching. The A's, two-time defending World Series champions, victimized McNally for the second straight year to square the best-of-five-game series at 1-1. A year ago in Baltimore, Bando homered twice against McNally, and had a third homer taken away by a leaping catch. Bando led off the fourth inning by watching two pitches miss the strike zone. Then, he said, "I tried to hold up on my swing and popped it up. I was just depressed." But Bobby Grich, Baltimore's Golden Glove-caliber second baseman, dropped the high pop in foul territory. "I had it right in my glove," Grich said. "It wasn't like the ball was right in the sun — just a little bit." The reprieved Bando lined a three-ball, one-strike fast ball over the left field fence, just eluding the glove of Baltimore's Don Baylor. "I thought he caught it," Bando said of a play that would have been a re-run of Al Bumbry's leaping grab in Game Two of the 1973 playoffs in which Holtzman outpitched McNally, 6-3. Fosse, sidelined much of the season from surgery on a disc in his back, credited teammate Jesus Alou's "magic wand" after belting a double in the seventh inning and the three-run homer in the eighth off of Grant Jackson. An error by substitute shortstop Frank Baker kept the inning going for Fosse. "It's heavier, 35 ounces, and has more wood," said Fosse, who wasn't sure he'd be a starter behind the plate until Friday night. "I dreamed I'd hit a three-run homer. It came two days later," he said. The playoffs move to Baltimore Tuesday for the third and fourth games, plus a fifth if necessary on Thursday. "It doesn't bother me at all," Dark said of the task of winning twice at Baltimore. "With these two teams, it doesn't matter where we play." "It looks like it'll go the distance," Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson said. "I'm glad we're going back home." Manager Earl Weaver of Baltimore said that Sunday "just wasn't our day. Our line drives were just within reach and those homers just made it." "The name of the game in the playoffs is good pitching," said Dark, who sends left-hander Vida Blue, 17-15, against Baltimore's Jim Palmer, 7-12, Tuesday. Blue is winless in four decisions as a post-season pitcher, and Palmer, last year's AL Cy Young Award winner, started 1974 with a sore arm.

The University of Tulsa basketball team will visit Hawaii next season to play in the Rainbow Classic. Dates for the Honolulu games are Dec. 26-30.

CAPITAL GRIDDER—Sophomore defensive back and punt returner Dave Truex, left, is continuing his outstanding football career at Capital University this fall. The 6-foot, 185-pound Truex, who lettered as a freshman cornerback last year, has been moved to safety in Cap's 4-4-2-1 defense because of his overall athletic prowess and range. Truex also serves the squad as a single safety punt returner and substitute punter. The Circleville High grad (1973) was an honorable mention all-Ohio performer in high school and also an all-South Central Ohio League selection. He is joined on the varsity this fall by linebacker Dale Hill, right, a freshman prospect from Kingston (Zane Trace High School). The 5-10, 210-pound Hill will see most of his action this fall with the Crusader jayvee squad. For the past two years he was an all-Scioto Valley Conference pick.

Al Geiberger Wins Sahara

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Al Geiberger kept munching on peanut butter crackers and talking to himself. "If I don't keep talking to myself, all the time, I tend to back off. I kept telling myself that second place doesn't do me any good at this stage of my career," the 37-year-old veteran said Sunday after his three-stroke victory in the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

He talked himself into it, shooting a final round 69 — two under par on the sun-splashed, 6,800-yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course — for a 273 total.

"When you go so long without winning, you begin to think you can't," said Geiberger, whose last previous triumph came in the 1966 PGA National Championship.

He paused for a moment, smiled broadly and said: "Johnny Miller wins eight in one year, I win one in eight years."

He got a little help in winning this one.

"All of a sudden everybody laid down," he said. "Usually they're going the other way — they're coming at you. But this time they backed off. It's a good feeling."

He clinched it when challenging Chi Chi Rodriguez, within one stroke of the top, hit his tee shot into the water on the 18th hole, dropped it into a depression, put his next in the woods, took a couple of shots to get out, finally got in a trap and made a 15-foot putt for a triple bogey eight.

Cleveland Crusaders Lose Fight, Game

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh Penguins center Ron Lalonde's scored three goals, but as even he realizes, few people will remember.

What they will recall is that the World Hockey Association Cleveland Crusaders skated off the ice with 4:30 left in their exhibition game against the Penguins after a wild exhibition which saw more fighting than skating.

Oh, Pittsburgh won, 5-3, avenging last week's 5-2 loss to Cleveland.

Cincinnati Reds Seek Doug Rader

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have begun negotiations with the Houston Astros in an effort to obtain third baseman Doug Rader, The Cincinnati Enquirer reported today.

The Reds were reportedly offering relief pitcher Clay Carroll, 12-5 with an earned run average of 2.14; third baseman Dan Driessen and outfielder Ken Griffey for Rader.

Rader has .257 for the Astros this season with 17 home runs and 78 runs batted in.

Pearson Wins National 500

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Superspeedway veteran David Pearson put it all together Sunday and held off a Richard Petty charge to win the $161,877 National 500 stock car race.

For Pearson, who beat Petty to the checkered flag by 1.4 seconds, it was his second straight victory at Charlotte Motor Speedway. For Petty, it was a continuation of his jinx at Charlotte. He has failed to win in 27 races here while finishing second five times.

The turning point in the 500-mile race (334 laps) came on lap 281 when Pearson's Mercury took the lead after experiencing tire and handling trouble. He led early in the race and then surrendered the front-running spot to 10 other drivers. Eventually, Pearson led four times for a total of 90 laps.

Petty, in a Dodge, began his last-minute charge on lap 317 with about 26 miles left to go. He fell in about 15 lengths behind Pearson when the fifth wreck of the day brought out the ninth caution lap of the race. Petty had closed the gap to about three lengths when the race ended.

Darrell Waltrip, who turned in perhaps his best effort in his two-year Grand National career, finished third in a Chevrolet. Waltrip led eight times for a total of 39 laps.

Donnie Allison, who led seven times for 37 laps, was fourth in another Chevrolet while his brother, Bobby, finished fifth in a Matador, a lap behind the four leaders. Bobby Allison, who led 10 times for 80 laps, was a contender until lap 286 when the eighth caution flag came out because of a wreck.

Emerson Fittipaldi Wins Championship

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Carlos Reutemann won the battle and fellow Latin-American Emerson Fittipaldi won the war during Sunday's 15th running of the United States Grand Prix.

"It is good," both said, following Reutemann's wire-to-wire victory and Fittipaldi's fourth-place finish that gave him his second world driving championship in two years.

And both were somewhat subdued in their victory celebrations because of the death during the race of 25-year-old Austrian driver Helmuth Koinigg.

Bengals Defeat Redskins, 28-17

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Bengals cornerback Lemar Parrish thinks the Washington Redskins are a great football team.

"I think they are the best team I ever played against, I don't know if they think that way about me," Parrish said. After Sunday's 28-17 Bengals victory over the Redskins, the feeling is mutual.

"Cincinnati's special teams are the best we've played against," said Redskins Coach George Allen. "They have those two speed demons Parrish and Tommy Casanova who do a great job and who really turned it on against us."

It was Parrish's 90-yard punt return in the first quarter that put the Bengals on the scoreboard for the first time and in the third quarter, he picked up a Jerry Smith fumble and went 47 yards for another score.

Casanova ran a punt back 38-yards in the closing seconds of the third quarter to set up the Bengals final touchdown.

"We beat a good football team and we had to get the long strikes and the good fortune to win," said Paul Brown, Bengals coach.

It was a good time for the special team to shine. The Bengals rushing came to almost a complete standstill getting 99 yards and quarterback Ken Anderson ended up not only throwing, but leading the team rushing with 70 yards in seven carries.

"It was desperation," said Anderson, who hit 12 of 17 passes for 142 yards in addition to his rushing total.

"The only quarterback run we had planned was at the end of the first half. The rest were because their pass defense was so complete."

"Nothing worked on the line," added offensive guard John Shimmers. "They do more stunting and slanting than any other team, I've seen. The only thing that worked was the quarterback running. You just need breaks against a team like this."

The Bengals specialty teams and Anderson, who threw to Isaac Curtis for a 24-yard touchdown in the second quarter, were all the breaks the Bengals really needed.

Duane Carter Grabs USAC Championship

ROSSBURG, Ohio (AP)—Duane Carter Jr. of Huntington Beach, Calif., clinched the 1974 USAC sprint car championship with 827 points Sunday by winning the 50-lap feature at Eldora Speedway here.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — First, the good news: "Monty Python's Flying Circus," a hit British comedy series, will be set loose in the U.S. this month. Now, the bad news: Only 18 public TV stations are carrying it initially.

But Time-Life Films, Inc., which is distributing the BBC-produced program, says it hopes to sell the 13-week series to additional stations across the U.S. in coming weeks.

American viewers got a brief look at the Python emporium this year on NBC's "Midnight Special" show and "Dean Martin's Comedyworld" summer series.

But for those who missed it, I guess the only way to characterize the show is to say it defies logic, dashes through various skits more briskly than a speeding locomotive and combines live action with brilliant, bizarre montage animation.

The first show, which opened last night on WNET-TV here and will start on most of the other Python stations this week, was a mind-bender extraordinaire.

For example, it had a skit entitled: "How to recognize trees from quite a long way away." Then it showed a tree called a larch. Then, as part of the course, it went into a courtroom to cover the trial of a man named Larch, charged with a parking offense.

The prosecutor said: "I now call the late Arthur Aldridge."

"Is there any relevance in questioning the deceased?" inquired the judge as a coffin was brought in and put on the witness stand.

The witness, the prosecutor explained, "is virtually dead, m'lord. He's not completely dead, but he's not at all well."

He also noted the witness answers questions by knocking on the side of the coffin.

"Would you be prepared to say," he subsequently asked Aldridge, "that you are, as it were, or definitely is known as, in a manner of speaking, dead?" There was no knock of reply.

"Are you considering the question or are you just dead?"

Still no knock. The barrister walked over, opened the coffin, thought for a while, then turned to the judge. "No further questions, m'lord."

Like I say, logic isn't the show's strong point. There's not even a real Monty Python. It just seemed a handy name for the show, created by five young Englishmen and Terry Gilliam, an American artist.

The series is typical British lunacy in the best sense. Be sure to catch it if it ever plays on public TV in your town.

According to Time-Life, it'll be on display this month in Dallas; Chicago; Erie, Scranton and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Providence, R.I.; Buffalo and Watertown, N.Y.; Beckley and Huntington, W. Va.; Miami; Washington, D.C., and Athens, Ga., in addition to New York.

And it'll start appearing next month in the Iowa cities of Waterloo, Iowa City, Des Moines and Sioux City.

Australia is the only continent in the world that contains only one country.

Grand Jury Indicts 39, Returns One No Bill In Lengthy Session

The September Grand Jury in its second session Friday returned 39 true bills and ignored one case of the 40 presented to it by Pickaway County Prosecutor Richard L. Gerhardt. Robert Moon, foreman of the jury, recommended that if in future so many cases were to be presented, the whole day should be set aside.

Judge Guy G. Cline, who sat on the common pleas bench in the absence of Judge William Ammer, advised Gerhardt that he should notify the court in the future if he had more than 15 cases for any one grand jury session. The jurors began at 1 p.m. and did not conclude until 6:30. They examined 18 witnesses in the 40 cases involving 22 persons. Thirteen of the 39 indictments returned were secret and will not be released until the time the defendants are to appear.

The only case presented which did not result in an indictment was against Lawrence R. Cupp, 112 Watt St. Cupp had been brought before the grand jury from municipal court on a charge of having a concealed weapon.

A charge of public intoxication had originally been sent to the common pleas court as a companion case as recommended by assistant county prosecutor James R. Kingsley. The intoxication offense was charged under city ordinance and Judge Ammer ordered it returned to the city court because the higher court had no jurisdiction in the matter. Cupp is scheduled to appear before the municipal court on Thursday. The city police made the two arrests.

Breaking and entering and grand theft as well as escaping indictments were returned against Dennis Edward Gaul alias Dennis Edward Jameson, Cleveland. Gaul escaped from municipal court on Friday morning and the prosecutor added the third charge to his list for the grand jury. Gaul was before the municipal court for possession of an instrument for the use of hallucinogens. At present he remains at large.

Two other Cleveland men were also indicted by the grand jury, James Vincent Doszta for breaking and entering, grand theft, vandalism and possession of criminal tools and Laurence Ray Reines for a second offense of possession of an hallucinogen.

Sylvia Denise Jenkins, brought before the grand jury from juvenile court, was indicted for perjury. She allegedly gave conflicting testimony in the Luther Harris case. Harris was convicted of breaking and entering the Jink Fields residence.

Breaking and entering charges were brought by the grand jury against Arnold Robison, 219 Second Ave.

Donald Eugene Donaldson, Ashville, and Beulah Barnhart, Route 1, Kingston, were indicted on separate charges of passing bad checks. A third individual charged with the same offense was charged on a secret indictment.

An indictment was returned against Michael Edward Hettinger, Laurelville, for felonious assault.

Three Columbus men were indicted for breaking and entering and grand theft. Indicted were Donald Lee Greene, Charles Odell Porter and Cecil Lonnie Greene who allegedly stole tie plates from the C and O Railroad in Ashville.

Thieves Enter Saltcreek School

Thieves took a freezer and food, valued over $700, from the Saltcreek Township School, Route 1, Laurelville, sometime during the weekend.

According to Francis Fraunfelter, custodian, entry to the grade school building was gained by breaking a fire escape window.

Sheriff's Deputy James Fite is continuing the investigation.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Barbara Brooke, 477 Edwards Road, is a patient at University Hospital, Columbus. She is in room 527.

Kingston, was indicted on two counts of uttering a forged instrument.

Rape and kidnapping charges were returned by the grand jury against Dennis Lee Boltenhouse, 612 Renick Ave.

A final indictment was against Gary Congrove, Route 1, Laurelville for grand theft.

Jurors who met in the second session were Ralph Edgar Bivens, Jean Louise West, Russell Orren Doddroe, Robert R. Werner, Sue Carol Roan, Marvin Eugene Orihood, Rosebelle Henn. Robert Eugene Moon, and Alfred Frederick Axe.

Nixon Said Doing Well

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has not spoken with his physician since Friday night, and the doctor says that apparently is a sign the former President is recovering normally from plebitis.

"I assume that means things are going along satisfactorily," Dr. John C. Lungren said Sunday.

Nixon, 61, was released on Friday from Memorial Hospital Medical Center at Long Beach after a 12-day stay for treatment of plebitis, an inflammation of a vein, in his left leg.

Nixon is receiving oral doses of an anticoagulant drug, Coumadin.

Aides at the former Western White House made no comment Sunday on Nixon's condition, but a spokesman said Saturday the former president was resting and following his doctor's orders to limit his activity.

Lungren, who described Nixon as more exhausted when he left the hospital than when he entered, said his patient told him on the phone Friday night that he was glad to be home.

Lungren has said Nixon, who resigned as President in August, should avoid traveling long distances for at least one month and perhaps three.

First Family Gets New Dog

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's duties at the White House will include feeding the family's new dog and taking it out for walks if daughter Susan has her way.

The dog, a female golden retriever named Liberty, was picked out for the family by 17-year-old Susan and White House photographer David Kennerly. President Ford showed it off to photographers on the south lawn Sunday and had no luck in trying to get it to retrieve a tennis ball.

Asked who would be responsible for the care and feeding of the dog, Susan responded "Daddy" before the President could answer. Ford said the dog has only one responsibility — "just to be a good family friend."

Police Check Larcenies

Circleville Police spent a busy weekend investigating three grand larceny reports and the break-in of a garage.

About $225 worth of hand tools were taken from a tool truck at Circle Transport Co., 430 W. High St., according to LeVerne Wills, Route 5.

Thieves also took 30 gallons of anti-freeze valued at $180 from the building. Minnie Eckart, 112 Parkview Ave., told police that she lost a First National Bank money bag in the Penney's Store, 137 W. Main St., Friday afternoon.

The bag contained two Avon order books and $153.02 in cash.

A jog cart owned by Arthur Mace, Route 3, was stolen from barn 3 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Sunday.

The cart, valued at $300, is red, trimmed in white, with a white and yellow mud apron with the initials "M & M" on it.

W.E. Clark, 214 Cedar Heights Rd., told police that thieves removed two plywood panels from his garage door to gain entry Saturday night or Sunday morning. However, nothing was taken.

NEW! TENDER, LEAN THRIFTY BEEF

NOW at Kroger
YOU HAVE A CHOICE!

Now at Kroger — a new brand of beef to broaden your shopping selection — Tender, Lean, Thrifty Beef. This beef is well-named, coming from young, lean cattle resulting in mild, satisfying flavor and texture. Yet, we guarantee the outstanding tenderness of this leaner beef. Tender, Lean, Thrifty Beef is carefully selected by Kroger's own meat experts, only from 100% U.S.D.A. inspected beef.

Whenever you want uniformly superb flavor and juicy-rich tenderness in beef, insist on People's Choice U.S. Gov't Graded Choice Beef — a Kroger exclusive. Not only does People's Choice Beef meet rigid U.S. Department of Agriculture standards for USDA CHOICE quality ... it also meets Kroger's own quality criteria for beef excellence. All People's Choice Beef is triple-trimmed of excess fat, bone and waste for outstanding value.
